We kick things off with a special service of Compline, on Monday 24th January at 8pm, focusing on Psalm 1.

Sermon Series – Israel's Folk Music: Songs beyond the Psalms

There's no doubt that the Psalms are a rich collection of prayers and meditations. We might even consider it Israel's song book. But this is not to say that all Israel's songs are contained in the Psalms; there are other melodies and choruses to be found. Some of these even function like the folk songs of our own culture: telling a story or marking a significant historical event. Coming from Portsmouth, I have something of a soft spot for this type of music, and culinary efforts in the kitchen are often helped along with a strangled rendition of some sea shanty or other. Though arguably an unrefined form of music, these songs have a beauty and a gravity of their own. After all, song is an ancient and noble way of telling stories.

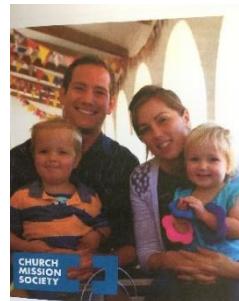

Although an imperfect analogy, we are in a sense turning to Israel's "folk music" - the songs not found in the song book. Throughout the Old Testament, there are rich and profound choruses, some of which, like the Song of the Sea from the book of Exodus, have even become Jewish liturgies still in use today.

It is my prayer, that looking at these prayers over the next few weeks will enrich our own prayer lives, and the informal "folk" liturgies we weave into our own intercessions. Rev. Simon

Church Mission Society (CMS) Mission of the Month for January and February

At St Paul's we concentrate our support for CMS on our link with Ben and Katy Ray, who are at present working at Iringa in Tanzania with disabled people, who are trained and work with Neema Crafts. Ben and Katy Ray have headed up the Neema Crafts Project for the past ten years. They are now seeking a new ministry in a wider context but still in Tanzania. Pray with them as they seek to clarify their vision and for the sensitivity to pull it into reality. Please see the display at the back of church.

A Prayer for those living with mental ill health

God of the light and the darkness, we pray for those whose minds right now are locked in a living nightmare of pain and despair; for those whose condition puts them at risk, but who are not understood by others; for those who are drowning in a sea of destructive inner voices.

You are the God who speaks words of calm to the chaotic waves that threaten to engulf the vulnerable. Be the comfort and consolation of all whose minds are ravaged. By your grace, may they find the help they need and the warm assurance of those around them. We ask this in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Bishop Simon Burton-Jones

Prayer Box

A prayer box and prayer request papers are at the back of church, where you are welcome to submit a prayer request (anonymously if you prefer). These will be collected each week and prayed for sensitively by Rev. Simon and the Thursday prayer group.
